Assignments and Schedules

Major Units

The semester will be broken up into three main units. Each unit will focus on a major assignment and its supplemental assignments. The first assignment will be a rhetorical analysis of a professional source. The second unit will be journalistic document profiling one of your communities, and the final paper will be a social commentary that asks you to identify and analyze a pattern or trend in society.

General Schedule

Detailed schedules will be provided at the beginning of each of the three major units. Each four-week major unit will follow the same basic schedule:

- Week 1: Practice Assignment #1 due (50 pts)
- Week 2: Practice Assignment #2 due (50 pts)
- Week 3: Paper Due (100 pts)
- Week 4: Revision Due (50 pts)

- The practice assignments will change depending on the unit. Practice assignments will help you work towards successfully completing your major paper.
- Your paper will be due on the third week of the unit. Your paper will be given its final grade at that time along with suggestions by me of how to improve. The following week there will be a revision assignment. The act of revising correctly will be worth 50 points, but you will also have the chance to improve the original score of your paper based on the improvements you made to your paper. Revisions may not be available for all papers depending on available time.

Late Assignment Extension Contract

You will be provided with a Late Assignment Extension Contract. This is a one-use item that will allow you to ask for an extension on one of your assignments*. I will not ask why you need the extension, but you must give a clear plan for finishing the assignment in a reasonable time. To have your extension request accepted you must:

1. Submit your request prior to the due date of the assignment
2. Complete the worksheet associated with the assignment.
3. Ask for a reasonable amount of time (one week maximum) to finish the assignment.

*The late assignment extension cannot be used for group work or for anything due in the final two weeks of class.

Assignments

The  stick represents prodding, cajoling, even whacking (metaphorically) if necessary. These assignments are meant to challenge you and to bring out your best work.	Your portfolio will consist of the following finished items: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1) Rhetorical Analysis Unit (250) 2) Community Profile Unit (250) 3) Commentary Unit (250) All final papers will be graded, then you will revise the paper based on my comments with the chance to improve your score.

Longer assignment descriptions will be made available on the website or via handouts, but this list will give you a picture of the work you will do in the course.

 The carrot represents "reward," gentle and positive incentive, a chance for you to boost your grade through perfect attendance or working hard on a low-stakes but important assignment.	You will also receive separate grades for the following assignments/activities: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1) Online Journaling (100) 2) Introduction Assignments (50) 3) Class Participation (50) 4) Reflection (50)

Grading Scale.

Course total= 1000 points.

A = 900 — 1000 (A-: 90-93%, A: 94-97%, A+ 98-100%)

B = 800 — 899 (B-: 80-83%, B: 84-87 %, B+: 88-89%)

C = 700— 799 (C-: 70-73%, C: 74-77 %, C+: 78-79%)

D = 600— 699 (D-: 60-63%, D: 64-67 %, D+: 68-69%)

F = below 600

Individual assignments will be based on the same scale 225/250 = A; 180/200 = A;
90/100 = A; 45/50 = A; 22.5/25 = A; 9/10 = A, etc.

Definitions of Grades

The grading of written work in this course is subjective. Meaning, that specific points are not assigned to rubric criteria or any elements of a document. Instead, your final grade for a document will be a holistic representation of the entire body of work including but not limited to:

- a. Adherence to the assignment's requirements
- b. The incorporation of materials from class lecture and supplemental handouts on Blackboard
- c. Innovation and creativity applied to the assignment.
- d. Level of development of ideas.

In certain cases, a grade of a D or F may result in you being required to resubmit the assignment. This is because the assignment represents key skills you may need to successfully complete future assignments. This will be handled on a case-by-case basis and will be up to the instructor's discretion.

A = excellent documents in all aspects. High A's will require unique, innovative, or creative approaches to the assignments

B = good; some aspects of the document or project might be excellent; others will be good.

C = acceptable completion of the assignment. No major problems, but room for improvement in most areas of the assignment.

D = a major aspect of the assignment has not been completed. Elements of the assignment might be quite good, but with unsatisfactory completion of certain elements, the assignment will remain a D.

F = incomplete assignment because page length was not met, proper research was not completed, proper documentation conventions not followed, genre conventions not adhered to, etc.

Relationship to Campus Focus:

Assignments in this course will allow students to explore the relationship between nature, technology and beyond by helping them develop the critical thinking tools needed to navigate these intersections. Students will identify topics relevant to the mission of DCB that interest and impact them and will be given the opportunity to explore those topics with intellectual curiosity and academic rigor.

Classroom Policies:

Expectations

- Bring all required class materials to class including textbooks and handouts from previous classes. Bring writing materials to class (pen and paper). Laptops are welcome but only use them for class activities and keep them closed when not in use. --For online classes it is expected that you have regular and reliable access to all necessary technology required to participate in the course. In this case that means a laptop or computer with Microsoft Word and a reliable internet connection.
- An appropriately demanding college course should require you to work approximately nine hours of work per week. In face-to-face classes three of those hours are in-person, with the remaining six hours to be done outside of class. Some weeks will require more, some less, but for this class you will be expected to do most of your reading, research, and writing outside of class time.
- Show respect for your classmates, their ideas, and their writing. This class will require you to share your ideas with classmates, either in class, through electronic discussion, or through peer review. Learning to respect—even understand—diverse perspectives is one of the hallmarks of a university-educated person.
- Be observant, thoughtful, and curious. I will do very little lecturing in this course; I will be trying to help you developed more sophisticated ways of looking at texts and the world, help you think more deeply and richly about issues that matter to you, and help you develop a sense of intellectual curiosity.

Deadlines: All assignments should be submitted on time to earn full credit for the assignment. A large part of the instruction of this course is learning the ability to create documents using a writing process and within a specific time. All work must be turned in by the deadline set during Finals Week. No exceptions will be made.

Late Penalties

Practice Assignments and Major papers will be accepted late; however, they will be subject to the following penalties:

- Assignments turned in more than 12 hours past the deadline will accrue a 10% penalty
- Assignments turned in more than one week past the deadline will accrue a 50% penalty
- Creative Journals cannot be turned in late
- Revisions will not be accepted for any major papers submitted during finals week

Classroom Management

The classroom is a shared learning environment. It is important to keep the classroom as free from distractions as possible.

Children: I love kids. As a father, I also understand the difficulties in arranging childcare on a consistent basis. If your normal childcare is disrupted feel free to bring your little one to class. The only thing we have to watch for is if the child begins to cause a distraction for the other students. If so, don't worry, I won't be upset, but I may ask that you take your child out of the room until they calm down and then come back in and resume your studies. With this in mind, please sit near an exit in case you need to leave the room to minimize any disruption to the class.

Food/Drinks: I have no problem with people eating or drinking in the classroom if doing so is not a distraction for myself or other students in the room. Please use your common sense and avoid foods that may be loud, pungent, or take up a lot of space.

Cell Phones and Computers: Please keep your computers and cell phones closed/put away unless using them for specific class related activities.

Storm Days and Other Class Cancellations

Throughout the semester class may be canceled for various reasons, the most common of which is storm days. In the event of a cancellation of any kind, the professor will communicate with students what they are responsible for during class time. Students are responsible for checking Blackboard for messages from the instructor and following any instructions for the work assigned for that day. Just because the school is closed does not mean students don't have any work.

Student Email Policy:

Dakota College at Bottineau is increasingly dependent upon email as an official form of communication. A student's campus-assigned email address will be the only one recognized by the Campus for official mailings. The liability for missing or not acting upon important information conveyed via campus email rests with the student.

Academic Integrity:

According to the DCB Student Handbook, students are responsible for submitting their own work. Students who cooperate on oral or written examinations or work without authorization share the responsibility for violation of academic principles, and the students are subject to disciplinary action even when one of the students is not enrolled in the course where the violation occurred. The Code detailed in the Academic Honesty/Dishonesty section of the Student Handbook will serve as the guideline for cases where cheating, plagiarism or other academic improprieties have occurred.

With regards to Artificial Intelligence. In the event that writing is submitted that deviates in style, voice, or vocabulary, from established samples of your writing, I may ask you to resubmit the work in a revised form. Work completed by AI LLM's such as ChatGpt are not to be submitted as your own work for any assignments.

Disabilities or Special Needs:

Students with disabilities or special needs (academic or otherwise) are encouraged to contact the instructor and Disability Support Services.

Title IX:

Dakota College at Bottineau (DCB) faculty are committed to helping create a safe learning environment for all students and for the College as a whole. Please be aware that all DCB employees (other than those designated as confidential resources such as advocates, counselors, clergy, and healthcare providers) are required to report information about such discrimination and harassment to the College Title IX Coordinator. This means that if a student tells a faculty member about a situation of sexual harassment or sexual violence, or other related misconduct, the faculty member must share that information with the College's Title IX Coordinator. Students wishing to speak to a confidential employee who does not have this reporting responsibility can find a list of resources on the DCB Title IX webpage.
