Relationship to Campus Focus:

The quotation below, attributed to Dr. C.N. Nelson, professor emeritus, is published in the atrium of the Nelson Science Center here on the DCB campus.

Man lives in two worlds. The world of the biosphere and the world of the technosphere. To the degree in which man reconciles his imposed technosphere to the requirements of the biosphere will determine whether he becomes extinct, continues to exist, or enjoys enlightened living.

In his concise manifesto, Dr. Nelson uses language to alert people to the necessity of reconciling the technosphere with the biosphere. Both the biosphere, nature, and the technosphere, technology, offer potential but also limit human action. In addition to the two spheres Nelson identifies, humans also live in a logosphere, logos being a concept that includes “language” and “reason” as part of its definition. The third concept in the DCB focus on nature, technology, and beyond is language, which communicates information but also carries incentives and goads to action. By studying language to be used for informative or persuasive purposes, spoken or written, DCB students begin learning to use language for more than transmitting information. DCB students learn to use language and explore its potential to reconcile the technosphere with the biosphere.

Classroom Policies:

In this class students will be asked to use Blackboard course messages to respond to discussion topics, submit all the prewriting exercises and outlines of essays, revise writing assignments to meet minimal competencies and beyond on essays chosen by students from among options the course offers, take quizzes given during class sessions.

Submit work on time: late work is assessed penalties. MS Word is required for all assignment submissions; work in any other format submitted to an assignment dropbox is not eligible for a grade. MS

Office is available as a free download at <https://www.dakotacollege.edu/student-life/computer-services/microsoft-office-365>

Work submitted to this class should be written for this class this semester. Submitting work that earned credit in other classes is a type of plagiarism that earns a failing grade.

So that everyone enrolled in the course may learn, students should attend class, on time, and focus on the topic of each class period. Class meetings will use active learning to meet the class learning objectives. Active learning means interaction between students and the instructor but also interaction among students. Most class periods, classroom assessment techniques will be used to gauge student understanding of daily learning. This means brief in-class quizzes of different types: multiple choice, true/false, written response, or graded notes.

This class assigns and tests on readings in the assigned textbook available for free on the Blackboard learning management system. This class asks students to write sentences, paragraphs, and papers on reading assignments and discussion topics from the assigned textbooks as well as issues students choose from approved topics.
